- Boosts muscle growth, strength, and output*
- May improve neurological performance*

► features

- Creatine monohydrate - An amino acid that is a naturally occurring chemical compound in our body. Every organ in our bodies uses creatine. Creatine takes burned off energy and converts it back into usable energy so you can use your muscles over and over without fatigue. It also pulls water into your muscle cells, making them resistant to injury and preventing muscle breakdown, creating strength and promoting muscle growth.
- Beta Alanine - A non-essential amino acid and the only naturally occurring beta amino acid. When we work out, acid builds up in our muscles. Beta Alanine fights acid buildup in our muscles so you are able to maintain maximum strength and endurance.
- L-Citrulline - A naturally occurring amino acid that is produced naturally in our body as well as being found in foods. It has been shown to support increased performance and lean muscle development. It also supports increased blood flow and amino acid delivery to muscles, leading to muscle growth and preventing problems such as cramping, bloating or water retention that are often experienced after long or strenuous workouts.
- No synthetic stimulants
- All-natural ingredients
